R.A.A.C. Order No. 15-00512

vs.

Referee Decision No. 0024533692-02U

Employer/Appellee

ORDER OF REEMPLOYMENT ASSISTANCE APPEALS COMMISSION

This case comes before the Commission for disposition of an appeal of the decision of a reemployment assistance appeals referee pursuant to Section 443.151(4)(c), Florida Statutes. The referee's decision stated that a request for review should specify any and all allegations of error with respect to the referee's decision, and that allegations of error not specifically set forth in the request for review may be considered waived.

On appeal to the Commission, evidence was submitted which had not been previously presented to the referee. The parties were advised prior to the hearing that the hearing was their only opportunity to present all of their evidence in support of their case. Florida Administrative Code Rule 73B-22.005 provides that the Commission can consider newly discovered evidence only upon a showing that it is material to the outcome of the case and could not have been discovered prior to the hearing by an exercise of due diligence. The Commission did not consider the additional evidence because it does not meet the requirements of the rule.

Additionally, the evidence provided, including a CD recording of an alleged conversation among the claimant's coworkers surreptitiously recorded by the claimant on her cellular phone, appears to have been obtained in violation of Section 934.03, Florida Statutes. See generally McDade v. State, 154 So. 3d 292 (Fla. 2014). Accordingly, we also reject the proffer pursuant to Section 934.06, Florida Statutes. Indeed, under this provision, it was clear error for the referee below to even permit the testimony of the claimant as to what was contained in the recording. In reviewing the record in this case for purposes of considering the merits of the claimant's appeal, we disregard all evidence of the contents of the recording, including that in the hearing recording, and accordingly strike such evidence from the record in this case.

Upon appeal of an examiner's determination, a referee schedules a hearing. Parties are advised prior to the hearing that the hearing is their only opportunity to present all of their evidence in support of their case. The appeals referee has the responsibility to develop the hearing record, weigh the evidence, resolve conflicts in the evidence, and render a decision supported by competent, substantial evidence. Section 443.151(4)(b)5., Florida Statutes, provides that any part of the evidence may be received in written form, and all testimony of parties and witnesses shall be made under oath. Irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence shall be excluded, but all other evidence of a type commonly relied upon by reasonably prudent persons in the conduct of their affairs is admissible, whether or not such evidence would be admissible in a trial in state court. Hearsay evidence may be used for the purpose of supplementing or explaining other evidence, or to support a finding if it would be admissible over objection in civil actions. Notwithstanding Section 120.57(1)(c), Florida Statutes, hearsay evidence may support a finding of fact if the party against whom it is offered has a reasonable opportunity to review such evidence prior to the hearing and the appeals referee or special deputy determines, after considering all relevant facts and circumstances, that the evidence is trustworthy and probative and that the interests of justice are best served by its admission into evidence.

By law, the Commission's review is limited to those matters that were presented to the referee and are contained in the official record. A decision of an appeals referee cannot be overturned by the Commission if the referee's material findings are supported by competent, substantial evidence and the decision comports with the legal standards established by the Florida Legislature. The Commission cannot reweigh the evidence or consider additional evidence that a party could have reasonably been expected to present to the referee during the hearing. Additionally, it is the responsibility of the appeals referee to judge the credibility of the witnesses and to resolve conflicts in evidence, including testimonial evidence. Absent extraordinary circumstances, the Commission cannot substitute its judgment and overturn a referee's conflict resolution.

Having considered all arguments raised on appeal and having reviewed the hearing record, the Commission concludes no basis exists to reopen or remand the case for further proceedings. The Commission concludes the record adequately supports the referee's material findings and the referee's conclusion is a correct application of the pertinent laws to the material facts of the case.

While we doubt that the conduct the claimant was herself subjected to, given the credited evidence, was sufficient to "compel a reasonable employee to cease working" as required by Section 443.101(1)(a)1., Florida Statutes, we affirm on the basis that the claimant failed to give the employer an adequate opportunity to address the issue of alleged harassment. See R.A.A.C. Order No. 13-05313 (February 18, 2014).<sup>1</sup>

The claimant's request to reverse the award of attorney's fees by the referee is denied. The record reflects the award was reasonable in light of the services provided by the attorney to the claimant in connection with the hearing. On appeal to the Commission, however, the representative for the claimant has not requested approval of any additional representation fees charged to the claimant for filing an appeal to the Commission. Under the circumstances of this case, the Commission concludes the claimant's representative is not entitled to collect an additional fee from the claimant for representation of the claimant before the Commission.

The referee's decision is affirmed.

It is so ordered.

DECISION OF APPEALS REFEREE

Important appeal rights are explained at the end of this decision.

Derechos de apelación importantes son explicados al final de esta decisión.

Yo eksplike kèk dwa dapèl enpòtan lan fen desizyon sa a.

SEPARATION: Whether the claimant was discharged for misconduct connected with work or voluntarily left work without good cause as defined in the statute, pursuant to Sections 443.101(1), (9), (10), (11), (13); 443.036(29), Florida Statutes; Rule 73B-11.020, Florida Administrative Code.

Issues Involved:

CHARGES TO EMPLOYER'S EMPLOYMENT RECORD: Whether benefit payments made to the claimant will be charged to the employment record of the employer, pursuant to Sections 443.101(9); 443.131(3)(a), Florida Statutes; Rules 73B-10.026; 11.018, Florida Administrative Code. (If charges are not at issue on the current claim, the hearing may determine charges on a subsequent claim.)

Findings of Facts: The claimant was employed in order processing/vendor training management beginning in December 17, 2013. The claimant believed her direct supervisor was making inappropriate comments about her in the workplace. On November 7, 2014, the claimant left a recording device on at the employer location while she went to lunch. When returning from lunch on November 7, 2014, the claimant listened to the recording device and believed her supervisor comments to be inappropriate. The claimant did not inform any member of management about her recording on November 7, 2014. The claimant quit the job on November 7, 2014. The claimant submitted a letter to the owner of the company on November 10, 2014, listing the reasons as to why she quit the job. The owner of the company requested that the claimant return back to work to discuss her dissatisfactions and concerns. The claimant refused to return back to work. The claimant quit the job effective November 7, 2014.

Conclusions of Law: The law provides that a claimant who has voluntarily left work without good cause as defined in the statute shall be disqualified from receiving benefits. "Good cause" includes only such cause as is attributable to the employing unit or which consists of an illness or disability of the claimant requiring separation from the work. The term "work" means any work, whether full time, part time or temporary.

The record and evidence in this case show that the claimant had dissatisfaction with her direct supervisor and voluntarily quit the job.

An individual who leaves work voluntarily, as the claimant did, carries the burden to show that the leaving was with good cause attributable to the employer, in order to qualify for benefits. That burden has not been met in this case. The claimant had a duty to advise the employer of any concerns in order to give the employer an opportunity to address them prior to quitting. The claimant speculated that her efforts would be unsuccessful and chose to quit the job. The claimant was required to make reasonable efforts to preserve the employment.

The law provides that an individual will be disqualified for benefits who voluntarily leaves work without good cause attributable to the employing unit. Good cause is such cause as "would reasonably impel the average able-bodied qualified worker to give up his or her employment." Uniweld Products, Inc. v. Industrial Relations Commission, 277 So.2d 827 (Fla. 4th DCA 1973). Moreover, an employee with good cause to leave employment may be disqualified if reasonable effort to preserve the employment was not expended. See Glenn v. Florida Unemployment Appeals Commission, 516 So.2d 88 (Fla. 3d DCA 1987). See also Lawnco Services, Inc. v. Unemployment Appeals Commission, 946 So.2d 586 (Fla. 4th DCA 2006); Tittsworth v. Unemployment Appeals Commission, 920 So.2d 139 (Fla. 4th DCA 2006). The claimant has failed to show that the employer violated the agreement of hire, that the separation was attributable to the employer, or that working conditions were so harsh as to require separation from employment. Moreover, the failure to take any steps to preserve the employment requires the referee to conclude that the claimant voluntarily quit the job without good cause attributable to the employer, or for reasons of health. Therefore, it is concluded that the claimant is disqualified from the receipt of benefits.

Consideration has been given to the claimant's testimony that she heard inappropriate comments made about her by her supervisor on the recording she made when she went to lunch. However the record shows the recording was not provided to the referee nor the employer for the hearing. The record further shows the comments the claimant testified were made on the recording about her by the supervisor were denied by her direct supervisor at the hearing before the appeals referee.

The hearing officer was presented with conflicting testimony regarding material issues of fact and is charged with resolving these conflicts. The Reemployment Appeals Commission has set forth factors to be considered in resolving credibility questions. These factors include the witness' opportunity and capacity to observe the event or act in question; any prior inconsistent statement by the witness; witness bias or lack of bias; the contradiction of the witness' version of events by other evidence or its consistency with other evidence; the inherent improbability of the witness' version of events; and the witness' demeanor. Upon considering these factors, the hearing officer finds the testimony of the employer to be more credible. Therefore, material conflicts in the evidence are resolved in favor of the employer.

An attorney represented the claimant at the hearing. An attorney's fee in the amount of $500 is approved. The fee is to be paid by the claimant.

Decision: The determination of the claims adjudicator dated December 4, 2014 disqualifying the claimant from benefits and non charging the employer account is affirmed.

If this decision disqualifies and/or holds the claimant ineligible for benefits already received, the claimant will be required to repay those benefits. The specific amount of any overpayment will be calculated by the department and set forth in a separate overpayment determination, unless specified in this decision. However, the time to request review of this decision is as shown above and is not stopped, delayed or extended by any other determination, decision or order.

This is to certify that a copy of the above decision was distributed/mailed to the last known address of each interested party on January 23, 2015.
