RECOMMENDED ORDER OF SPECIAL DEPUTY

TO: Assistant Director,
Executive Director,
Reemployment Assistance Services
DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY

This matter comes before the undersigned Special Deputy pursuant to the Petitioner's protest of the Respondent's determination dated April 12, 2012

After due notice to the parties, a telephone hearing was held on October 26, 2012. The Petitioner was represented by a Certified Public Accountant. The Petitioner's President testified as a witness for the Petitioner. A worker testified as a witness for the Petitioner. The Respondent was represented by a Department of Revenue Tax Auditor.

The record of the case, including the recording of the hearing and any exhibits submitted in evidence, is herewith transmitted. Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law were not received.

Issue:

Whether services performed for the petitioner constitute insured employment, and if so, the effective date of the petitioners liability, pursuant to Sections 443.036(19), (21); 443.1216, Florida Statutes.

Findings of Fact:

1. The Petitioner's president and sole shareholder is a practicing attorney, legal author, commentator, and lecturer. The Petitioner is a partner in the law firm of Coffey Burlington, PL. Additionally, the Petitioner markets and promotes the activities of its president as an author, legal analyst, and commentator.

2. The Petitioner utilizes a worker to perform website design and maintenance services, graphic design services, media editing services, and advertising services in connection with the marketing and promotion of the Petitioner's president's books, media appearances, and lectures. The individual is also employed as a full time paralegal for the law firm of Coffey Burlington, PL.
3. The worker operates a small website and graphic design business from a home office. The worker performs services for a number of clients. The worker has performed services for the Petitioner since 2002. The parties do not have a written agreement. The parties believe they have created an independent contractor relationship.
4. The worker receives assignments from the Petitioner. The worker determines when the work will be performed. The worker bills the Petitioner on an hourly basis, plus material cost. The Petitioner does not withhold taxes from the payments made to the worker.
5. The work is performed at the worker's home office. The worker furnishes the equipment, devices, software programs, and materials needed for the work.
6. The worker determines how the work is performed. The Petitioner does not provide any training or instruction to the worker. The Petitioner does not supervise the worker.
7. The worker can hire others to perform all or any portion of the work.
8. The Petitioner was selected by the Department of Revenue for an audit of the Petitioner's books and records for the 2010 tax year to ensure compliance with the Florida Unemployment Compensation Law.
9. The Petitioner's Certified Public Accountant provided the books and records and other information to the Tax Auditor by mail, e-mail, and telephone conversations. The Tax Auditor performed the audit at the office of the Department of Revenue.
10. At the conclusion of the audit, the Tax Auditor determined that the worker, identified in the Standard Audit Report as an assistant and to whom the Petitioner issued a 1099 form, was misclassified as an independent contractor and was in fact the Petitioner's employee.

Conclusions of Law:

11. The issue in this case, whether services performed for the Petitioner employment subject to the Florida Unemployment Compensation Law, is governed by Chapter 443, Florida Statutes. Section 443.1216(1)(a)2., Florida Statutes, provides that employment subject to the chapter includes service performed by individuals under the usual common law rules applicable in determining an employer-employee relationship.
12. The Supreme Court of the United States held that the term "usual common law rules" is to be used in a generic sense to mean the "standards developed by the courts through the years of adjudication." United States v. W.M. Webb, Inc., 397 U.S. 179 (1970).
13. The Supreme Court of Florida adopted and approved the tests in 1 Restatement of Law, Agency 2d Section 220 (1958), for use to determine if an employment relationship exists. See Cantor v. Cochran, 184 So.2d 173 (Fla. 1966); Miami Herald Publishing Co. v. Kendall, 88 So.2d 276 (Fla. 1956); Magarian v. Southern Fruit Distributors, 1 So.2d 858 (Fla. 1941); see also Kane Furniture Corp. v. R. Miranda, 506 So.2d 1061 (Fla. 2d DCA 1987).

14. Restatement of Law is a publication, prepared under the auspices of the American Law Institute, which explains the meaning of the law with regard to various court rulings. The Restatement sets forth a nonexclusive list of factors that are to be considered when judging whether a relationship is an employment relationship or an independent contractor relationship.
15. 1 Restatement of Law, Agency 2d Section 220 (1958) provides:
  - (1) A servant is a person employed to perform services for another and who, in the performance of the services, is subject to the other's control or right of control.
  - (2) The following matters of fact, among others, are to be considered:
    - (a) the extent of control which, by the agreement, the business may exercise over the details of the work;
    - (b) whether or not the one employed is engaged in a distinct occupation or business;
    - (c) the kind of occupation, with reference to whether, in the locality, the work is usually done under the direction of the employer or by a specialist without supervision;
    - (d) the skill required in the particular occupation;
    - (e) whether the employer or the worker supplies the instrumentalities, tools, and the place of work for the person doing the work;
    - (f) the length of time for which the person is employed;
    - (g) the method of payment, whether by the time or by the job;
    - (h) whether or not the work is a part of the regular business of the employer;
    - (i) whether or not the parties believe they are creating the relation of master and servant;
    - (j) whether the principal is or is not in business.
16. Comments in the Restatement explain that the word “servant” does not exclusively connote manual labor, and the word “employee” has largely replaced “servant” in statutes dealing with various aspects of the working relationship between two parties.
17. In Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services v. Department of Labor & Employment Security, 472 So.2d 1284 (Fla. 1st DCA 1985) the court confirmed that the factors listed in the Restatement are the proper factors to be considered in determining whether an employer-employee relationship exists. However, in citing La Grande v. B&L Services, Inc., 432 So.2d 1364, 1366 (Fla. 1st DCA 1983), the court acknowledged that the question of whether a person is properly classified an employee or an independent contractor often cannot be answered by reference to “hard and fast” rules, but rather must be addressed on a case-by-case basis.
18. It was shown that the intent of the parties was to create an independent contractor relationship. The Petitioner does not exercise control over the details of the work. The worker determines where, when, and how the work is to be performed. The worker furnishes the work space and all of the equipment, materials, and instrumentalities needed for the work. The worker invoices the Petitioner for her services.
19. It is concluded that the worker performing website and graphic design services for the Petitioner is an independent contractor and not the Petitioner's employee.

Recommendation: It is recommended that the determination dated April 12, 2012 be REVERSED.

Respectfully submitted on November 16, 2012.
