RECOMMENDED ORDER OF SPECIAL DEPUTY

TO: Assistant Director,
 Interim Executive Director,
 Reemployment Assistance Services
 DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY

This matter comes before the undersigned Special Deputy pursuant to the Petitioner’s protest of the Respondent’s determination dated November 30, 2011.

After due notice to the parties, a telephone hearing was held on April 27, 2012. The Petitioner’s vice president appeared and testified at the hearing. The Joined Party appeared and testified on her own behalf. A tax specialist II appeared and testified at the hearing.

The record of the case, including the recording of the hearing and any exhibits submitted in evidence, is herewith transmitted. Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law were not received.

Issue:

Whether services performed for the Petitioner by the Joined Party and other individuals constitute insured employment pursuant to Sections 443.036(19), 443.036(21); 443.1216, Florida Statutes, and if so, the effective date of the liability.

Findings of Fact:

1. The Petitioner is a limited liability company formed in 2005 for the purpose of running a medical radiology transcription business.
2. The Joined Party provided services for the Petitioner, as a medical transcriptionist from 2006 through October 2011.

3. The Joined Party was hired as an independent contractor. In 2009 the Petitioner began categorizing the Joined Party as a 'Statutory Employee' in accordance with an Internal Revenue Service program. The Statutory Employee program allows the Petitioner to withhold some taxes on behalf of long term independent contractors. The program requires that a W-2 form be issued for the independent contractor.
4. The Joined Party was allowed to work for a competitor.
5. The Joined Party was required to sign a non-compete agreement which prohibited the Joined Party from soliciting the Petitioner's customers.
6. The Joined Party could work from the location of her choosing. The Joined Party could set her own hours of work.
7. The Joined Party was paid $1.85 per report transcribed.
8. The Joined Party was required to provide all of her own materials, supplies, and equipment needed for the work.
9. The Joined Party would connect to the Petitioner's database and select available work. The times that the Joined Party could log into the Petitioner's database were limited. The Joined Party would submit a monthly invoice to the Petitioner.
10. The Joined Party's work was reviewed in the event of a customer complaint. If an error was made, the Joined Party was required to correct the error without additional compensation.

Conclusions of Law:

11. The issue in this case, whether services performed for the Petitioner constitute employment subject to the Florida Unemployment Compensation Law, is governed by Chapter 443, Florida Statutes. Section 443.1216(1)(a)2., Florida Statutes, provides that employment subject to the chapter includes service performed by individuals under the usual common law rules applicable in determining an employer-employee relationship.
12. The Supreme Court of the United States held that the term "usual common law rules" is to be used in a generic sense to mean the "standards developed by the courts through the years of adjudication." United States v. W.M. Webb, Inc., 397 U.S. 179 (1970).
13. The Supreme Court of Florida adopted and approved the tests in 1 Restatement of Law, Agency 2d Section 220 (1958), for use to determine if an employment relationship exists. See Cantor v. Cochran, 184 So.2d 173 (Fla. 1966); Miami Herald Publishing Co. v. Kendall, 88 So.2d 276 (Fla. 1956); Magarian v. Southern Fruit Distributors, 1 So.2d 858 (Fla. 1941); see also Kane Furniture Corp. v. R. Miranda, 506 So.2d 1061 (Fla. 2d DCA 1987).
14. Restatement of Law is a publication, prepared under the auspices of the American Law Institute, which explains the meaning of the law with regard to various court rulings. The Restatement sets forth a nonexclusive list of factors that are to be considered when judging whether a relationship is an employment relationship or an independent contractor relationship.
15. 1 Restatement of Law, Agency 2d Section 220 (1958) provides:
 - (1) A servant is a person employed to perform services for another and who, in the performance of the services, is subject to the other's control or right of control.
 - (2) The following matters of fact, among others, are to be considered:

- (a) the extent of control which, by the agreement, the business may exercise over the details of the work;
 - (b) whether or not the one employed is engaged in a distinct occupation or business;
 - (c) the kind of occupation, with reference to whether, in the locality, the work is usually done under the direction of the employer or by a specialist without supervision;
 - (d) the skill required in the particular occupation;
 - (e) whether the employer or the worker supplies the instrumentalities, tools, and the place of work for the person doing the work;
 - (f) the length of time for which the person is employed;
 - (g) the method of payment, whether by the time or by the job;
 - (h) whether or not the work is a part of the regular business of the employer;
 - (i) whether or not the parties believe they are creating the relation of master and servant;
 - (j) whether the principal is or is not in business.
16. Comments in the Restatement explain that the word “servant” does not exclusively connote manual labor, and the word “employee” has largely replaced “servant” in statutes dealing with various aspects of the working relationship between two parties. In Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services v. Department of Labor & Employment Security, 472 So.2d 1284 (Fla. 1st DCA 1985) the court confirmed that the factors listed in the Restatement are the proper factors to be considered in determining whether an employer-employee relationship exists. However, in citing La Grande v. B&L Services, Inc., 432 So.2d 1364, 1366 (Fla. 1st DCA 1983), the court acknowledged that the question of whether a person is properly classified an employee or an independent contractor often cannot be answered by reference to “hard and fast” rules, but rather must be addressed on a case-by-case basis.
17. The evidence presented in this case reveals that the Petitioner exercised limited control over when the work was performed. The Joined Party was limited in the times she could log into the Petitioner’s computer system to get work. The Petitioner exercised no control over where, or how the work was performed.
18. The Joined Party was required to provide her own materials, supplies, and equipment needed to perform the work.
19. The Joined Party was paid by the job. Payment by the job tends to indicate an independent contractor relationship.
20. The issuance of a W-2 form is strong evidence of an employer-employee relationship. In the instant case, the Petitioner issued the W-2 form in compliance with an Internal Revenue Service program specifically designed for independent contractors. While the State of Florida has its own criteria, similar to but independent of the IRS criteria for determining independent contractor status, it would be fundamentally unfair to penalize the Petitioner for following the rules of a Federal program. As such, the analysis of the Special Deputy is based solely upon the factors of control presented in the hearing.
21. A preponderance of the evidence presented in this case reveals that the Petitioner did not exercise sufficient control over the Joined Party as to create an employer-employee relationship between the parties.

Recommendation: It is recommended that the determination dated November 30, 2011, be REVERSED.

Respectfully submitted on July 9, 2012.

KRIS LONKANI, Special Deputy
Office of Appeals
